

CDA Self-Survey

How do I fit into the Child Development Associate (CDA) Credential™ process?

Check the best answer that fits your current style, needs, and practices.

Self-Survey	Yes	Sometimes	No
1. I have taken trainings to increase my knowledge.
2. I talk to parents on a daily basis about the children I care for.
3. I introduce new activities to children to increase their learning.
4. I am reflective in reviewing what I do in caring for children and within my program, making changes as needed to match the current needs and increase the quality of care I provide.
5. I am intentional about the books I read to the children and tie what I read to activities I present.
6. I use forms to record important information – such as accident and medication forms.
7. I maintain a safe environment for the children, including keeping my CPR and First Aid certifications current.
8. I believe I provide a valuable service to children and families.

You are already on the road to a CDA if you answered yes to some of the above questions!
